

Workplace Wellness Services WHAT YOU NEED TO KNOW:

YOUR WORKPLACE WELLNESS & EAP PARTNER

The cost of health care to the bottom line of corporate America has clearly reached a pinnacle. The outdated model, focusing resources exclusively on treating those who are already sick or disabled, can no longer be supported in an era of shrinking margins, global outsourcing, and the rapidly escalating cost of treatment. At H&H Health Associates we help hundreds of client companies find solutions to such issues.

Profitable productivity of your business is the measure of our success!

“Return on investment has been calculated at a minimum of $3 for every $1 spent on wellness.”

- Centers for Disease Control

You don't need us to tell you that employee health care spending has an enormous impact on every organization's financial well-being and continues to increase at unsustainable rates.

Insurance companies as a whole, operate in a very short-sighted, reactive fashion limiting the scope of services available to their members. Why?

Insurers are primarily concerned about the here and now. They know that most companies will shop insurance rates annually and therefore, may not have a vested interest in the long-term health of your organization.

We believe there is a better way to proactively care for your employees and leadership wants employees to be an equal partner in controlling costs by taking care of themselves.

You have a big picture view of these issues and are concerned for your employees well-being not only from a cost containment perspective but from a humanitarian point of view. After all, healthy employees are inevitably happier and more productive.

H&H Health Associate's services go far beyond the scope of offerings through the typical health plan, are proactive by nature, and make Workplace Wellness a winner for all parties.

The U.S. Department of Labor estimates that “35% of employees have an undiagnosed chronic disease that could easily be discovered.”

Our services provide clients with the tools to truly achieve significant return on investment.

For more information about our comprehensive, proactive and unique approach to Workplace Wellness, please contact us today. Our initial consultations are always provided at no charge and we will be happy to provide a no obligation quote.

We are your partners in long-term organizational health!
