

The Flu Vaccine

WHAT YOU NEED TO KNOW...

H&H Health Associates, Inc. understands the importance of protecting your workforce from the flu. Unlike the common cold, influenza can leave a person unable to function for several days, and when one person becomes ill, the virus is likely to spread throughout the organization.

As such, organizations everywhere are plagued by the financial implications of the flu. As these expenses continue to increase, preventable measures to fight influenza are imperative.

By taking action now and investing in your organization's most important assets, everyone's a winner!
